Leadership Qualities

I am a very extroverted person. I love being around people and being in new and different experiences. I would be a good leader because I'm not afraid to try new things, nor am I afraid to explain things to large groups of people. I lead people by setting examples as well because I like to show people what to do more than explaining it to them.

Goals

- a. My goal for the FFA Chapter is to have it grow immensely and for more people to come to more of the activities and meetings. I would like for there to be more participation from the members. Another one of my goals would be to become more involved with the alumni and the school staff.
- b. A goal of mine as an FFA member would also be to become more involved. I think being elected as an officer would really help me in doing that. I would love to get to know more of the local FFA members better. As an officer I would really be able to achieve these goals. It would be the extra push I need.
- c. Some of my personal goals would be to try harder in school and get the grades I know I could have. Another one is that I want to go to more morning workouts before and during the softball season. My third one is to be more on top of my tasks on hand. I would like to be a little more responsible and get things done when they need to be. Being an officer would once again really give me the extra push in the right direction to complete some of these goals.

Elected Officer

I think I should be elected as an officer because I can get my work done and I am very extroverted, so I wouldn't have an issue talking to new members or people at the meetings. I think I would be a great addition to the officer team because I also don't have an issue telling people to get their work done or confronting difficult situations head on. I am also a good leader and can set a good example for others to follow. I am a good leader because I can follow rules and am always capable of trying new things and being a leading person for people to follow in tough situations. I have no issues talking in front of large groups and doing what I need to do.

FFA Meetings

I have attended six FFA meetings since June First
